Site for New School May Be Coleman

Site for the composite high school being planned for the Crows Nest Pass School Division No. 63, created the most discussion at the Division's annual meeting February 9th, when it was disclosed that the Coleman site has so far been given number one preference and the Bodio property site southwest of Blairmore, second choice. Sites in Frank and Hillcrest have been eliminated.

Although recent disclosure of news that the new highway 3 may pass through the area planned for the school in Coleman, the board advised that it had contacted the Department of Highways, and it was learned that the highway could be moved to accommodate the school division plans.

The board also advised that in Coleman only one property owner had to be dealt with while in Blairmore there were two property owners to contend with and in Frank, owner of the land would not break up his 260 acres of land to provide only 20 for the division. Hillcrest was eliminated due to the railway crossing hazard, hilly area and distance from the more heavily populated areas in the division. The Bellevue site included some of the drawbacks that Hillcrest has.

Board chairman John Salus advised the meeting that the Old Man River Regional Planning Commission has held up progress on selecting a school site for six months as their recommendation for a site was to have been given to the board by July. It is expected that confirmation of a site will be announced by the end of this month. The site selected will then have to be approved by the Department of Education in Edmonton.

Mayor Alrik Tiberg of Blairmore enquired if the board or anybody has given any consideration to air pollution when selecting the site for the composite high school.

He stated that the pole treating plant at the east end of Coleman produced tremendous amounts of smoke that blew in the direction of the school site with the prevailing winds. He also added that with the Coleman Collieries planning a large cleaning plant expansion at the east end of Coleman, dust would also create a nuisance and pollution. Mayor Tiberg asked that his statement regarding air pollution be recorded for reference purposes ten years hence.

Fish and Game Night, March 9th

March 9th was the date set by the Coleman Fish and Game Association for the annual trophy night.

This year trophies will be presented for elk, moose, sheep, mule deer, grizzly bear, antelope, white tail deer and four trophies will also be provided for the winners of the four species of fish.

The matter of stocking Allison Creek dam with a coarse type of fish to clean out the bottom of the dam will be discussed with a provincial biologist when President Dante Filafilo, Jim Kerr and Orazio Celli of the Coleman club attend the Provincial Fish & Game convention to be held in Lethbridge on February 8, 9 and 10.

The club was considering planting grayling or white fish in Allison dam this year. While at the Lethbridge convention the three Coleman men will arrange for a speaker for Trophy Night.

The club will offer a prize to Coleman school students for the best slogan to be put on the club's letterheads. Theme of the slogan is to persuade to wildlife conservation and promotion or to the dams built by the local association. During the absence of President Dante Filafilo who will be going away for several months, Orazio Celli agreed to assume the presidential duties.

Admission fee for the annual trophy night and banquet was set at $2 per person and members bringing their wives will be charged an additional dollar. The admission fee purchases a membership into the club which provides insurance for the member totaling up to $100,000 public liability and property damage.

Ted Michalsky was delegated to look into and provide wildlife films to be shown during the trophy night evening of events.

Joe Zak will be presented with the membership trophy for having sold most memberships for the club.

Meanwhile the club is continuing efforts to have an access road built and a boat landing provided on the south side of Island Lake.

Industrial Developmt. Assn. Meets

In a united effort to attract industry to the Crows Nest Pass representatives of the Blairmore, Bellevue and Coleman councils met with the Crows Nest Pass Industrial Development Association in the Credit Union office on February 12th.

A letter is to be drafted and sent to Dome Petroleum inviting them to give consideration to their locating a new proposed gas scrubbing plant in this district.

The matter of providing better housing for families coming to the Crows Nest Pass was discussed, and investigations are to be carried out on how to obtain low-cost housing for this area.

Renewed interest in forming a county system in the Crows Nest Pass was shown and a basic study of the area is to be made in this regard.

Telephone Rates Reduced Between Varied Points

Long distance telephone rates will be reduced between Alberta-Yukon, and some points in northern British Columbia, effective February 18, 1968.

The reductions are the results of negotiations between Alberta Government Telephones and Canadian National Telecommunications the two companies that own the microwave systems that link the north with the rest of Canada.

The following are examples of the new rates, station-to-station. Grande Prairie to Whitehorse, Y.T., was $3.40, now $3.10; Edmonton to Whitehorse was $4.45, now $4.05, and Calgary to Whitehorse was $4.65, now $4.20. Reductions will also apply to person-to-person, night and Sunday rates. The rate of 16, he continued his studies in Chicago, New York and abroad.

He founded the Young Artists series of the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers and for five years was president of that association. He is an examiner for the Royal Conservatory of Music, and has served on the Senate of the University of Saskatchewan and as chairman of the Music committee of the Saskatchewan Arts Board.

In 1965 he was chosen for the University of Alberta National Music Award and in 1967 was honored with a Canadian Centennial Citation.

Centinnial Chairman Receives Scroll

Alex Sekella, chairman of the Coleman Centennial Committee, was honored at town council meeting February 13th, when Mayor John Holyk presented him with a scroll for the work he had done during the local Centennial celebrations.

Two readings were given to a by-law to raise the local water rates which council found necessary due to increased costs of pumping, construction of a new pump house and improvements to the water system.

The new monthly rates include hotels, $35; schools, $3 per room in use; cafes, $6; motels, $1.50 per unit; service stations, $7.50; coin operated laundry, $27.50, and all other services $3 per month.

The town secretary Cliff Noble, informed council that there would be 18 properties go up for tax sale on April 29th. The Building Committee and council will hold a meeting after the annual meeting February 26th to review this matter.

Rip-rapping the banks and cleaning out the channel of Nier Perce Creek through town was turned down as a winter works project. Council approved work on this matter being started without delay to avoid flooding problems that could arise this spring.

A local merchant reported and complained that there is an influx of door-to-door selling in town by unlicensed persons. He also advised that young people were spraying store windows on main street with pop and then breaking bottles on the sidewalk. The police will be informed of the above matters.

Fire Chief Henry Zak will attend the annual Fire Chiefs' convention scheduled to be held in Lethbridge March 18 to 20.

Council also approved the budget turned in by the brigade which included raising the pay for fire-fighters to $3 for the first hour and $2 per hour thereafter.

A local lady reported that she has been attacked by dogs in town for the third time. As a result, council will make plans for action to be taken on the dog problem during the month of March.

Mayor Holyk, Councillors John Binda, Mel Cornett, Fred Macleod and Vic Krywy were appointed to the court of revision-date for which is to be set.

Councillors Ted Kryczka reported that the Sports Association has approved an increase for the caretaker retroactive to January 1.

Two complaints were lodged that cars coming out of the Horace Allen school property and entering a main thoroughfare were not stopping and thereby creating a hazard. Council will have a stop sign erected to correct this condition.

Projects that were planned for the local cemeteries appear to have died. A Centennial project to clean up and grass in the local cemeteries was started by the local UMWA last summer and some work was done on fencing and cleaning up the graves. Some soil was brought in and grounds partially levelled but much remains to be done. Interest in the matter has dropped.

Canadian Education Week . . . March 3 to 9

The theme of Canadian Education Week this year (March 3 to 9) is directed at the high school student. It is: "Don't Quit . . . Choose!"

This theme is amplified in a brief pamphlet distributed to students across the country. At a time when high school drop-outs are presenting Canada's educators with a constant and heart-breaking problem, this pamphlet may well be worth quoting in full.

Some young people SHOULD leave school . . . but are you sure you're one of them?

Yes, some young people should leave school—either to attend a different sort of school—or to get a job. There are a few who are unfitted—physically, mentally, or emotionally—for the school they are attending or even for any kind of formal schooling.

These young people, though, are a minority—a very small minority. The rest should stay in school—in the right school, of course, but in school.

Many of us have thought at one time or another of dropping out—either through boredom, or frustration, or whatever. It's normal.

If this feeling does not pass, then you may be in the wrong school. But there is a right school for you. There is the right school—and the right course of study—for every young person. — Ask around. Ask a counsellor.

And then, when you've found the right school, stick with it until you reach your goal.

Many drop-outs seem happy now—but what about ten years from now? What will they be—where will they be—then? Ask yourself that question.

Some young people should leave school—but make very sure you're one of them. Think it over. There's time to make up your mind—but not—very much time.

Don't quit—choose! The Canadian Education Week people would like to see that message pinned up on the bedroom wall of every high school student in the nation. If it persuades just one young person to finish high school instead of dropping out, they feel that their efforts will have been worthwhile.

There are many spots in the economic intellectual and social life of Canada which are open only to the university graduate. There are almost none open today to the student who does not complete high school.

Canadian Athletes Seek Your Support

Canadians developed a new sense of pride and national identity when this country became 100 years old. Enough, perhaps, to match the example set recently by four women from Czechoslovakia.

The four plan to walk from Prague to Mexico City this year, averaging 25 miles per day and carrying all their needs—spare clothing, shoes, a tent, sleeping bag, cooking utensils and one week's rations. The trip may be motivated in part by a sense of adventure, but their goal demonstrates a fierce national pride. They will be in Mexico City in October to cheer on the Czech team in the XIXth Olympic Games.

This year the Canadian Olympic Association is searching for similar desire from Canadians to support their most ambitious program. At the Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, during February, 72 athletes will represent our country in six sports; at the Summer Games in Mexico City, 140-plus Canadian athletes will compete in 13 sports.

The OOA, which underwrites this program, needs $500,000 from the general public. It has been worked out as meaning two and a half cents from each person. It is not a staggering budget when compared to such high powered sports countries as the United States and Russia. The latter is estimated to spend 2.2 billion dollars each year on sports facilities and the development of athletes.

The key to Canada's Olympic budget, however, is that it comes from voluntary contributions by bank managers, by barbers and by ballet dancers. The OOA rightly feels that unlike one gigantic government grant, funds raised this way demonstrate the support of the Canadian people for our athletes.

Our athletes deserve this support. The rigors of international competition call for myriad sacrifices and in some cases almost a withdrawal from normal, social life for the young men and women concerned. For many, the only reward is of having given their best for their country.

Contributions to the Canadian Olympic Association are both tax deductible and worthy. They may be sent to Box 900, Montreal.

Can You Pass This Fire Quiz Test?

(By A. E. Bridges, Alberta Fire Commissioner)

The pursuit of new technical information is so very important, but how well do home owners know the simple facts that will spell the difference between life or death should fire suddenly strike the home? Dwelling fires in Alberta each year make up more than 50 per cent of the total number of fires. There has been a slight decrease in the number of dwelling fires in the last few years due perhaps to more concern about this problem, but still 80 per cent of all fire deaths occur in homes.

The best way to guarantee fire safety in your home is to teach the family the basic safety rules. Take the time to read the following fire test quiz. You should be able to answer "yes" to all these questions. Any time the answer is "no" it will indicate a potential danger spot which needs prompt attention and correction.

In Case of Fire—

—Is the number of the nearest fire department posted near the phone?

—Have you instructed your family in a plan of action if fire breaks out?

—Has your family been instructed and drilled on the location of exits from the house and how to close all windows and doors in case of fire?

—Do you keep exit routes clear—especially of such things as room heaters and stoves which might start a fire and block your escape?

—Are bedroom windows large enough and unobstructed to serve as emergency exits?

Care of Children—

—Do you make it a rule never to leave small children alone or unsupervised?

—Do you show your baby-sitter the escape routes from your home, and give instructions on the right way to call the fire department?

—Does your baby-sitter (and you!) know the first rule of safety in fire emergencies: get everybody out fast and don't go back in? —Are your children trained to keep a safe distance from flame and spark sources?

Watch Your Language!

Excerpts from letters asking for welfare assistance, courtesy The Labor Statesman:

I am forwarding my marriage certificate and six children. I have seven but one died which was baptised on a half sheet of paper.

I am writing the welfare department to say that my baby was born two years old, when do I get my money?

Mrs. Jones has not had any clothes for a year and has been visited regularly by the clergy.

I cannot get sick pay. I have six children. Can you tell me why?

I am glad to report my husband who is missing is dead.

This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?

Please find out for certain if my first husband is dead. The man I am now living with don't eat or do anything until he knows.

I am very much annoyed to find you have branded my son illiterate. This is a dirty lie as I was married a week before he was born.

In answer to your letter I have given birth to a boy weighing 10 pounds, and I hope this is satisfactory.

I am forwarding my marriage certificate and three children, one of which is a mistake as you can see.

Unless I get my husband's money pretty soon I will be forced to lead an immortal life.

You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will this make a difference?

In accordance with your instructions I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope.

I want money as quick as I can get it. I have been bed with the doctor for two weeks and he doesn't do me any good. If things don't improve I will have to send for another doctor.

Please send me a letter and tell me if my husband made application for a wife and baby.

I am a poor widow and all that I have is in front.

I have no children as yet as my husband is a truck driver and works day and night.

Please send my wife's form to fill out.

The Homemaker

(Miss Patricia L. Peters, District Home Economist, Box 40, Claresholm, Alberta, Phone 235-3242. Cardston, Phone 653-3462. Pincher Creek, Phone 627-3130 or 627-4022)

On Tuesday, February 20th at 8 p.m. in the Provincial Building here in Claresholm, there will be a meeting of the Homemakers Guild. A new slate of officers will be brought in, suggestions for the year's program will be outlined, and entertainment in the form of slides of other countries will be provided.

The Homemakers Guild is an organization unique to Claresholm and the immediate area. It serves a very useful function in providing, or sponsoring adult education programs. A great deal of their work is co-ordinated through this office and they are of immense value to me, as an organizational body; and also as a sounding board for new program ideas.

New members and new ideas are always welcome, and will be particularly welcome at the meeting Tuesday night. Ladies in other areas, who might be interested in forming such a group, might like to come along too—or, if you would like more information on their organization, contact the Homemakers Guild in care of this office.

Here's another instalment in the fibre fact series we've been following these last few weeks.

ModaCrylcs

As the name suggests, MODA-CRYLCS are "modified" acrylics. This modification is essentially one of chemical composition.

Where acrylics are composed of 85 per cent or greater acrylonitrile, moda-crylcs utilize acrylonitrile combined with a vinyl.

Moda-crylcs are light weight, soft and wrinkle resistant. You will most likely be familiar with them under the trade names DYNEL and VEREL. Their main uses are in carpets, synthetic furs and chemically resistant work clothing. Wigs and artificial hairpieces have increased their popularity on the direct consumer market.

Dynel is virtually resistant to all commonly encountered chemicals and has the added advantage of non-flammability. Industrially and in technical laboratories, Dynel has proven to be very successful for protective garments such as coveralls, shirts and aprons. It has also proved to be an excellent filling material for insulation and for filling cushions, pillows and comforters.

Do it yourself home-owners have found Dynel paint rollers to be superior to brushes in the application of paint indoors. If the napped form of the fibre is used, these rollers are easily cleaned.

One of the widest applications of this fibre is in the imitation furs. Dynel in wigs first snow-balled on the doll market. This "hair" can be waved, brushed and washed, permitting your daughter almost as much latitude in styling her doll's hair as Mum has. With the increasing popularity of switches and falls, Mum may very well be employing the same fibre in her hair style.

Verel is employed primarily in the manufacture of synthetic furs and carpets. Fibres of Verel are also used in high bulk yarns which have been well accepted in socks, sweaters, and other heavy knit articles.

John Kinnear Wins $150 Bingo

John Kinnear was the lucky winner of the $150 cash jackpot at the Coleman Legion bingo night held February 16th.

Winners of $10 prizes: Sofie Lepacek, W. McGillis, Francis Cote, Frank Vyse, Mrs. J. Avoledo, Mr. Cornish, Mrs. Berdusco, Mrs. J. Mills and Adam Lieber-gall.

The next bingo night will be held March 1st when a cash jackpot of $100 will be offered for the first blackout in 54 numbers.

Measles

It has been taken for granted for years that every child sooner or later must have measles. In fact, almost all children in the past have at one time or another had measles. However, measles is a serious disease, and can cause death and disability, according to the Canadian Medical Association. Some children develop severe pneumonia and have a difficult time recovering. Occasionally a child has a severe nervous system complication which leaves him crippled for life.

Newly developed vaccines for the prevention of measles have proven to be extremely effective. There are two types of vaccines: the killed measles vaccine and the live measles vaccine. At the present time medical opinion favors the live vaccine which has been treated so that the virus which normally causes measles has been weakened so it causes only a very mild disease—a little bit of fever. Perhaps some headache, a little cough. The child gets the same protection he would have after having had the full-blown disease.

There are two forms of live vaccine. One is combined with gamma globulin in order to minimize the symptoms that might develop. Another form of the vaccine is further weakened so that it does not require the giving of gamma globulin along with it.

The CMA advises that measles vaccine should be given to children over the age of nine months. In this way measles can be prevented. It is interesting that the mild, modified measles induced by the vaccine is non-infectious and yet it produces the same life-long protection that the regular disease produces.

Unique Testament Of Boy Scout Founder

This week, February 18 to 25, the Boy Scouts dedicate themselves to the observance of National Boy Scout Week and more particularly to the memory of the man responsible for the birth of this great fraternal brotherhood—Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell.

On this occasion, as they celebrate the anniversary of his birthday (February 22), we record here the Chief Scout of the World's last message, found among his papers after his death.

FINAL MESSAGE

"Dear Scouts:

"If you have ever seen the play 'Peter Pan' you will remember how the pirate chief was always making his dying speech because he was afraid that possibly when the time came for him to die he might not have time to get it off his chest. It is much the same with me, and so although I am not at this moment dying, I shall be doing so one of these days and I want to send you a parting word of good-bye.

"Remember, it is the last time you will hear from me, so think it over.

"I have had a most happy life and I want each one of you to have as happy a life too.

"I believe that God put us in this jolly world to be happy and enjoy life. Happiness doesn't come from being rich, nor merely from being successful in your career, nor by self-indulgence. One step towards happiness is to make yourself healthy and strong while you are a boy, so that you can be useful and can enjoy life when you are a man.

"Nature study will show you how full of beautiful and wonderful things God has made the world for us to enjoy. Be contented with what you have and make the best of it. Look on the bright side of things instead of the gloomy one.

Give Happiness

"But the real way to get happiness is by giving out happiness to other people. Try to leave this world a little better than when you found it and when your turn comes to die, you can die happy in the feeling that at any rate you have not wasted your time, but have done your best; 'Be Prepared' in this way, to live happy and to die happy. Stick to your Scout Promise always—even after you have ceased to be a boy—and God help you do it.

"Your friend,
Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell".

IN MEMORIAM

CASTELLANO — In Loving Memory of Silvio Castellano, who passed away February 28, 1967.

One sad and lonely year has passed, Since our great sorrow fell, For what it meant to lose you, No one could ever tell. Gone from us is His loving face, And pleasant cheerful ways, A heart that won so many friends, In happy bygone days. Dear Lord forgive a silent tear, And constant wish that he were here. Sadly missed by his wife, Ebe, Dennis, Alice, Mary and families.

Students To Present The Minstrel Show

The students of the Horace Allen High School Pep Club hope that they can revive the old American form of entertainment—the Minstrel Show. The Minstrel Show is to be presented on March 1st in the Horace Allen High School at 8 p.m.

The Minstrel Show, a purely native form of entertainment, was America's unique contribution to the history of theatre. In imitation of the singing and dancing of plantation slaves, white minstrels, their faces and hands blackened with burnt cork, built their performances on the songs, humor, superstitions and peculiarities of the Negro. The first minstrel show was presented in New York in 1843. The 1870's and 1880's produced large organizations with hundreds of performers. On the minstrel stage, performers like Al Jolson and Nat Goodwin received their introduction to the theatrical world.

The stereotype of the American Minstrel Show was fixed by the Christy Minstrels as early as the 1850's. In the "first part" the show opened with a well executed song and drill across the stage. At the famous command from the Interlocutor, "Gentlemen, Be Seated", the performers took their places in a semi-circle, with the end-men, attired in extravagant and colorful costumes, and equipped with tambourines and castanets, sitting at the ends, and the Interlocutor in the middle.

There followed a well co-ordinated program of ballads, choruses and jokes, and the black-faced endmen furnishing the comedy in lively repartee with the Interlocutor.

Among the mass of songs for the minstrel were the songs of Stephen Foster, such as "My Old Kentucky Home", "Old Black Joe", "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia" to mention only a few and the song "Dixie" written by Emmett. The "first part" was followed by the olio, a combination of specialties comparable to the vaudeville show. The olio generally opened with a monologue by the company's premiere comedian. There followed musical and dancing acts, skits of many kinds and the Grand Finale in which all the members of the company participated.

Today, the professional minstrel show is but a memory. Minstrelsy remains the chief sport of amateurs. The minstrel jokes which delighted earlier generations would not "get a laugh" in this more sophisticated age of girls' songs, musical extravaganzas and Hollywood features. However, the high school students hope that they can bring about a return of the Minstrel Show to the "Pass" and perhaps bring back memories to the old and acquaint the young with this form of entertainment which was once so popular on the stage. Come out and enjoy an evening full of laughter!

Court Rejects Two Appeals Against The Ostash Award

(Lethbridge Herald)

CALGARY (cp) — The appeal division of Alberta Supreme Court has rejected appeals by the province and a heating firm against an $86,000 award to the family of John Ostash, former mayor of Coleman, Alberta.

The award, set by Chief Justice C. C. McLaurin last year, followed the deaths of three of Mr. Ostash's children and the amputation of one of his legs after his home filled with carbon monoxide in March, 1964.

The chief justice last year blamed a blocked furnace vent and held a provincial gas inspector one-third responsible and the Coleman firm of Better Plumbing and Heating, two-thirds responsible.

Chief Justice S. Bruce Smith of the appeals division said in a written judgment the appeal court would not be justified in interfering with the Alberta Supreme Court judge's assessment of responsibility.

"In my view neither the inspector nor the installer used the degree of care and skill required," wrote Chief Justice Smith.

Help For Heart Victims

OTTAWA — Victims of heart attacks often regard themselves as semi-invalid, and tend to avoid all kinds of exercise. It appears now that regulated exercise may be the fastest way to recovery, and research underway could lead to effective exercise programs for cardiac people.

A grant of $15,000 to a research team from the University of Western Ontario, one of 20 totalling $200,120 announced today by National Health and Welfare Minister Allan J. MacEachen, will help determine the effects of a 24-week graduated exercise program on clinically healthy and post-infarct men as part of a continuing study.

The team, led by Dr. M. S. Yuhaz, Dr. P. A. Rechnitzer and

Dr. A. U. Pavio and supported through the National Fitness and Amateur Sport Program, has been involved for the past three years in the study of the effects of exercise on clinically healthy persons and on cardiac victims. Interim reports already submitted to the Department are encouraging, especially for males 35 to 50 years old.

Approximately 60 men, half clinically healthy and half post-infarct patients—an infarct is a type of heart attack caused by a blockage of the blood supply to the heart—are subjected to a carefully controlled and graduated exercise program. Comparisons are made between their condition early in the exercise program and at the end. Tests range from simple medical examination and blood sampling to treadmill exercise, oxygen consumption analysis and heart-rate recordings.

Your Heart Fund is the number one defence against heart and blood vessel disease, Canada's No. 1 health enemy. Give generously.
